BCC Research – Logging in to BCC Research – Video Transcript

Hi everyone, this is a video that shows you how to login to BCC Research. You may be accessing BCC Research through the link that I provided in my PowerPoint slides or, if not, you could also be accessing it through the library website. You go to lib.unb.ca, click on article databases and we'll do a search for BCC Research and we'll head right in to it.

There are screenshots here showing you how to login, but sometimes it can be confusing, so I wanted to film this quick video to show you how. You would click that red button to connect to BCC Research. It will take you to the home page and what you want to do is click member login. There is no username and password that you'll need to enter. You just need to click IP Authenticate and when you're logged into the proxy, as you can see up here in the URL it's saying proxy.hill.unb which shows that BCC Research recognizes that you're coming from UNB, and it grants you access to the database. When the heading turns yellow that tell you that you are officially in BCC.
